“As Wisconsin’s non-partisan chief election official, I have a statutory obligation to rise above political attempts to undermine our elections,” said WEC Administrator Meagan Wolfe. “Facts about how our elections are run in a secure, fair, and legal manner are available on our website at <https://elections.wi.gov/2020--ElectionQuestions>. Despite the current political firestorm, I will continue to apply my full focus on the important work of serving all Wisconsin’s voters and local election officials. It would be irresponsible to spend any energy engaging a blatantly partisan and coordinated attempt to baselessly challenge the integrity of democracy in our great state.”
