Today, Defend Democracy Project released voter guides for seven states: Arizona, Michigan, Minnesota, Nevada, North Carolina, Pennsylvania, and Wisconsin. These voter guides compare candidates on their records and public statements on whether or not they will accept the results of the 2022 elections.

“Next Tuesday’s vote will allow Americans to choose among candidates with different views on their willingness to accept the results of the 2022 elections,” said Defend Democracy Project communications director Nicole Haley. “The freedom to choose our own leaders is sacrosanct in our nation. Americans must be able to get the facts to make up their own minds about who best represents us and the Democracy we hold dear.”
