NEW BERLIN, Wis. — Today, the Bricklayers and Allied Craftworkers District Council of Wisconsin announced their endorsement of Governor Tony Evers' re-election campaign.

"We're proud to stand with Gov. Tony Evers and announce our endorsement in this critical race," said Jim Vick, Director of Bricklayers & Allied Craftworkers of Wisconsin. "We know Gov. Evers is committed to doing the right thing for working men and women across our state. Under his leadership, Wisconsin's economy is growing, more people are employed than ever before, and working families have the voice they deserve. During his first term, Gov. Evers defended the rights of Wisconsin workers and worked to expand job training and apprenticeship opportunities across Wisconsin. Our members are grateful for this leadership and look forward to working with Gov. Evers during his second term."

"I'm honored to have the support of the Bricklayers and Allied Craftworkers District Council of Wisconsin and the trust of their members across the state," said Governor Tony Evers. "As Wisconsin's economy continues to grow, we're counting on skilled workers to help move our state forward. That's why we'll continue our work to expand job training and apprenticeship opportunities, and stand with workers in every corner of the state."

The Bricklayers and Allied Craftworkers District Council is the first individual statewide building trade union to endorse Gov. Evers' re-election. They represent and train highly skilled masonry-trowel trades craftworkers across Wisconsin. More information is available at bacwi.org or by calling (262) 827-4080.
