FOX CITIES, Wis. (July 15, 2022) - The Fox Cities Chamber of Commerce announced that Jodie Federwitz has joined the organization as Director of Pulse Young Professionals Network.

In her role, she is responsible for the creation and implementation of all Pulse and Calumet Connect programming. Pulse Young Professionals Network focuses on the attraction, retention and engagement of young talent in the Fox Cities by providing a venue to cultivate professional relationships. This is done through planning and executing creative, locally sourced events and activities. The Pulse director acts as a conduit between businesses, non-profit and arts communities in the Fox Cities.

“I’m excited to join the Chamber and be an advocate for young professionals in the Fox Cities, connecting and promoting them within the business community,” said Federwitz.

Prior to joining the Chamber, Federwitz was a teacher at Wrightstown High School. She also taught at Boscobel High School. She holds a Bachelor of Science degree from Viterbo University and attended Fox Valley Technical College for marketing.

She can be reached at jfederwitz@foxcitieschamber.com.
