Campaign to fire Josh Kaul continues to build momentum, resonate with voters

[Balsam Lake, Wis.] – Today, Adam Jarchow’s campaign for Attorney General announced two staff additions as it continues to grow support and build momentum across the state. This is the latest in a series of moves demonstrating the campaign’s strength and a message that is resonating with voters. The campaign recently announced fundraising numbers that far outpace Adam’s primary election opponent, along with a growing list of endorsements from law enforcement and conservative leaders.

Collin Driscoll will serve as Campaign Manager. Most recently, he worked as Chief of Staff for State Senator Mary Felzkowski (R-Tomahawk). His past campaign experience includes working as Political Director for Congressman Tom Tiffany’s special election, as well as campaigns for the Republican Assembly Campaign Committee and the Committee to Elect a Republican Senate. Collin first worked for Adam when he was a State Representative.

Mike Hoffman will serve as Field Organizer. Most recently, he was a Regional Field Director for Wisconsin Victory. Mike also has experience in the State Legislature and with Trump Victory.

“In the matter of weeks, we’ve hit the ground running – raising money, earning support from law enforcement and elected officials, talking to voters, and putting together an experienced team that’s prepared to fire Josh Kaul in November,” said Jarchow. “We’re pounding the pavement every single day, making sure that Wisconsinites have an Attorney General who supports law enforcement, protects our communities, stands with parents, and fights for our constitutional freedoms.”

Driscoll commented, “I’ve known Adam for a long time, and he will fight tooth and nail for what’s right – something the Department of Justice has been lacking for the last 3 years. We’re ready to get to work and take back Wisconsin.”

About Adam

Adam has practiced law for nearly 20 years and helps his wife, Barbara, run their small businesses. In 2014, Adam was elected to the Wisconsin State Assembly, where he fought for smaller, limited government and worked against the bureaucratic deep state; voters re-elected him by a wide margin in 2016. Adam was the lead author of several conservative reforms that were signed into law by Governor Walker. As a result of Adam’s legislative leadership, numerous business and agricultural associations – representing hard-working people across the state – recognized his efforts including the Wisconsin Builders Association, Wisconsin Manufacturers and Commerce, Dairy Business Association, the Wisconsin Taxpayers Association, Wisconsin REALTORS Association, Metropolitan Milwaukee Association of Commerce, and the Wisconsin Grocers Association.

Adam is an avid sportsman and lover of the outdoors. He can often be found hunting, fishing, canoeing, water-skiing, and snowmobiling. The greatest joy in Adam’s life has been sharing his love of Wisconsin’s great outdoors with his kids.

Adam has spent nearly a decade as a volunteer firefighter with the Apple River Fire Department. He also helped start the Polk County K-9 Association, which raises money for the Polk County Sheriff’s Department K-9 Unit.
