In four weeks, raises more than primary election opponent raised in all of 2021

[Balsam Lake, Wis.] – Today, Adam Jarchow announced that his campaign raised over $100,000 in the four weeks since launching his bid for attorney general. Jarchow’s fundraising significantly outpaces his primary election opponent – raising more in four weeks than his opponent totaled in all of 2021 and 3x what he raised in the second half of 2021, when accounting for personal contributions.

Last week, Jarchow announced the support of nearly two dozen law enforcement leaders. Earlier, the campaign outlined a strong advisory committee comprised of leaders in the conservative legal movement, law enforcement, and grassroots community across the state.

“Voters are excited about our campaign to fire Josh Kaul, and I’m humbled by the incredible support that we’ve earned from patriots across Wisconsin,” said Adam Jarchow. “We must elect a trusted, reliable conservative with the conviction and record needed to restore leadership to the attorney general’s office and fight back against the radical liberal agenda.”
