[Waukesha, Wis.] — In response to the Wisconsin Supreme Court decision holding that unmanned ballot drop boxes are illegal under Wisconsin law, candidate for governor Rebecca Kleefisch released the following statement:

“This decision is a huge win for election integrity. But our work is not done. We must elect a governor committed to signing legislation that protects the integrity of our elections and understands that unelected bureaucrats have no business re-writing our laws.

“As the only candidate to sue the Wisconsin Elections Commission to force them to follow the law, I will continue to work to secure our vote and make sure elections officials play by the rules. I’m committed to making sure every Wisconsinite knows their vote counts.”
