Madison- Today, Amy Loudenbeck (R-Clinton) filed the January Continuing 2022 campaign finance report with the Wisconsin Ethics Commission.

Loudenbeck raised $73,600 from over 100 donors since announcing her campaign for Secretary of State on December 1st, including a $5,000 personal loan. She has $145,000 cash on hand which includes the beginning balance from her existing campaign committee. Contributions were received almost exclusively from Wisconsin residents, and most donors supported Loudenbeck in prior elections.

“Continuing to have the backing of so many people who have supported me in the past is incredibly important. They know I have what it takes to win this race, and want me to get off to a strong start as I take my message statewide. I look forward to ramping up my efforts as I travel around the state to meet Wisconsin citizens and earn their votes; solid financial support makes that possible,” said Loudenbeck.
