Common Council President José G. Pérez and Finance and Personnel Committee Chair Alderman Marina Dimitrijevic are putting forth an amendment to the 2023 City budget that will restore the proposed cuts to library and fire services, among other areas. The alders stressed the key role public input played when crafting this amendment.

“This budget amendment has the support of a majority of the Common Council and we thank members for their careful consideration and compromise. It delays major changes to library hours and fire station closures. However, we have little to celebrate. The catastrophic financial situation of the City warrants more time and discussions with our community as we work together to provide the city services our residents count on. We are committed to deeper conversations with our constituents and the Administration as we rebuild our city moving forward post-pandemic,” Alders Pérez and Dimitrijevic said.

Money to restore essential city services will come from federal American Rescue Plan Act (ARPA) funding previously disbursed to the City and an adjustment to the police budget. The budget amendment includes restoring all proposed funding cuts to the Milwaukee Public Library and Milwaukee Fire Department, in addition to adding funding to the Department of City Development Commercial Corridor Program, supporting vacant lot maintenance, and adding to the Healthy Food

Establishment Fund.
