Washington, D.C. – We are 40 days out from Election Day, and one trend is becoming clear: Voters are tuning out the Democrat attack ads trying to distract from the failed Biden agenda in Washington of inflation, rising crime, open borders, and more.

In Georgia, Raphael Warnock and his allies have spent upwards of $70 million trying to smear Herschel Walker and politicize mental health. But it isn't working.

In Pennsylvania, opponents of Dr. Oz spent tens of millions distorting his record and calling into question his allegiance to America. But the race has now tightened dramatically.

In Wisconsin, Democrats have spent untold amounts of money bashing Ron Johnson for years in hopes of weakening him in November. But his lead keeps growing.

In Nevada, Catherine Cortez Masto and liberal groups have attempted to completely fabricate Adam Laxalt's record as Attorney General and as a lawyer. But Laxalt has now built a sustained lead in the polls.

Democrats are throwing everything they can against the wall in hopes it'll stick with voters. But it isn't working...

Statement from NRSC Spokesman T.W. Arrighi: “The fabricated media narrative that Democrats are advancing in the battle for the U.S. Senate is exactly that: fabricated. In race after race, Democrats have tried to smear, distort, and outright lie about their opponents because they know that they have no record of achievement to run on. Their only hope is to win via destruction and now, 40 days from Election Day, that strategy is showing real signs of failure as voters tune out the attacks.”
