Brookfield, Wis. - (June 15, 2022) – Wisconsin-based health insurer Network Health announced today the addition of Milwaukee attorney Mike Lappin to its senior leadership team. Lappin will become the organization’s chief legal and strategy officer on July 1.

Lappin has a reputation as a trusted adviser and innovative problem solver, helping the C-suite navigate complex business challenges from both legal and strategic perspectives. He began his legal career at Quarles & Brady LLP in 1993 and moved on to Aurora Health Care in 2009, where he served as chief legal officer and chief administrative officer. Following the merger of Aurora and Advocate Health in 2018 he served as chief integration officer, leading the integration of 75,000 employees, 27 hospitals and 500 sites of care into one health care system. In 2021 Lappin joined Foley & Lardner LLP as an attorney practicing in their health care and transactions practice groups.

“Mike is the perfect addition to our leadership team,” said Coreen Dicus-Johnson, president and CEO of Network Health. “I recruited him because he is a well-respected executive and will be instrumental in helping us ensure we remain a market leader by expanding our market presence and creating innovative products that enhance our members’ choices. Mike’s experience as a top executive and as a lawyer representing major clients in Wisconsin and nationally were significant considerations in our recruitment of him.”

“I am excited to join Coreen and her team at Network Health,” said Lappin. “I see this as a great opportunity to build on Network Health’s strong 40-year history by growing and expanding the business and offering products that give the members of the communities we serve choices as they make decisions in the health care marketplace.”

Lappin is a life-long Milwaukee resident and has a strong history of community involvement. He currently serves on the boards of Jewish Family Services and Boys and Girls Clubs of Greater Milwaukee.

Lappin earned a bachelor’s degree from Duke University, and both a J.D. and Master of Public Administration from the University of Wisconsin, Madison. He and his wife reside in Milwaukee and have three adult children.
