(MADISON,WI) - Join RCC for the entire month of April as they “Reimagine Collective Access to Care” for Sexual Assault Awareness Month.

Sexual violence affects everyone, but everyone’s ability to receive help is not the same. RCC invites you to join in discussing how to cultivate collective access to care when resources seem scarce and barriers to care might be high - especially for those most impacted by systems of oppression.

Throughout the month, RCC will be engaging with the Dane County community through several events, including a Black Survivor Panel as well as a Keynote Luncheon Panel featuring various local activists to discuss access to care. Campus advocates will distribute free gender-inclusive menstrual and safer sex kits, and their GameChangers Youth Advisory Board will host a panel regarding how to best support student survivors in schools.
