Green Bay, Wisc. - “Georgia Pacific will be moving on to bigger things as they announced the closing of the Day Street Mill here in Green Bay. With any company, it is important to constantly think about “what is next?” and I am optimistic the closure of this plant will expand upon the great things occurring at the Broadway Mill.”

“In December, Georgia Pacific announced a $500 million expansion to the Broadway Mill which will offer new opportunities to our community and modernize the production of paper-making. I am appreciative that the employees working at the Day Street Mill will be able to continue their work without going far. I hope for a smooth transition for all involved and thank the current employees for their commitment to their work.”
