BELOIT, WISCONSIN — Congressman Bryan Steil (WI-01) stopped by Casey's Gas Station on Cranston Road in Beloit to talk with voters about high gas prices and gather support for his reelection. Congressman Steil heard from voters who were filling up their vehicles. Voters shared their concerns about the negative impacts of higher gas prices on them and their families. Under the new Congressional district maps, the City of Beloit will now be in Wisconsin's First Congressional District.

Congressman Bryan Steil (WI-01) issued the following statement:

"Families and workers are getting clobbered by higher costs. Failed energy policies have resulted in higher gas prices. I'm working on getting prices under control. I'm looking forward to working hard to earn the support of the people of Beloit, where I worked for eight years before running for Congress. Great to be back."
