OSHKOSH – U.S. Sen. Ron Johnson (R-Wis.) joined Sen. Tim Scott (R-S.C.) in introducing a bipartisan resolution designating January 23 through January 29, 2022, as National School Choice Week.

“National School Choice Week is a time to celebrate the benefit families have in choosing the type of education that is best for their children. I’ll continue advocating for Wisconsin’s students and families by supporting the expansion of school choice, and providing further options for our kids’ education so parents can ensure their children receive the best education possible,” said Senator Johnson.

“We are grateful for this bipartisan recognition of National School Choice Week and our positive focus on raising awareness of the traditional public, public charter, public magnet, private, online, and home education options available to families across our country. National School Choice Week is a time to empower parents with information and inspiration, and an opportunity to celebrate the success of students and the dedication of America’s hardworking educators,” said Andrew Campanella, president of National School Choice Week.
