"I am proud to announce today that I'm running for re-election in the 14th Assembly District. I'm proud of my work these last 3.5 years, and I'm determined to continue to fight for the rights of Wisconsinites.

"We need affordable healthcare, strong public schools, childcare, a world accessible for everybody, a safer world from the threats of violence, mental healthcare as healthcare, safe and secure housing (which is a key determinant of health!), affordable medications, a world free of human trafficking, equality, good government, fairness in small business, and justice for all— where all means all.

"I'm running for re-election in a moment many of us can barely catch our breath. What we are seeing and feeling right now is nothing short of terrifying, exhausting, and extraordinary. But what I have seen us do over these last 3.5 years is band together, work together, fight together, hope together, build together, love together, and win together.

"I believe the power of "Us" is greater than the power of that which seeks to divide.

"Will you join me as we fight, dream, hope, build, love, and win-together?

"For the Love of Wisconsin: LET'S GO!"
