West Bend, WI - In light of the recent announcement that Regal Ware, Inc. and the Village of Kewaskum released yesterday, County Executive Josh Schoemann expressed his support of their joint agreement.

The Village of Kewaskum intends to purchase the Regal Ware headquarters building for their new civic center. Regal Ware will keep their manufacturing facility in West Bend, while moving their headquarters to a new location that has yet to be determined but may be in Milwaukee County.

Regal Ware has helped create a carousel of prosperity in our county. Family prosperity and community prosperity are only possible with prosperous businesses that provide industry and family-sustaining jobs.

“I applaud Regal Ware for their focus on partnering with Kewaskum, retaining their current employees at the headquarters, keeping manufacturing jobs in Washington County, and their intent to continue their support of the municipality’s non-profit and educational programs,” said Schoemann. “This endeavor is beneficial not only for the joint partners of Regal Ware and Kewaskum, but for the entire Washington County community. As a great corporate citizen with a long-term and successful history in our county, I wish them much success in this transition.”
