WASHINGTON – On Wednesday, U.S. Sen. Ron Johnson (R-Wis.) joined Laura Ingraham on The Ingraham Angle to discuss the latest developments surrounding Hunter Biden’s sweetheart plea deal and why it should be rejected and also to talk about the mounting evidence of corruption surrounding the Biden family’s business dealings.

Sen. Johnson said of the deal that, “Any other American would be in jail had they evaded taxes the way that Hunter Biden has. Hunter’s sweetheart plea deal should be rejected — we need a thorough investigation and an honest prosecution.”

On why Hunter Biden’s sweetheart plea deal should be rejected:

“Well, my concern there is it’s very difficult to convict a Democrat in Washington, D.C. under the FARA statute. So you can convict Republicans, but convicting a Democrat is pretty difficult here in this jurisdiction. You know, they should mostly be concerned about the tax evasion. An excellent article by Eileen O’Connor in The Wall Street Journal, I think it was yesterday, she was former head of the tax division at the Department of Justice, saying that any other American would be in jail had they evaded taxes the way that Hunter Biden does. What I've been looking for Laura, is who is going to advocate for the equal application of justice under the law. You know, obviously, the prosecution has not been doing that. I was hoping the judge would do it. I hope she still will by just rejecting this sweetheart deal and call for a thorough investigation and an honest prosecution, because we have not had that yet. And that's what I think Hunter ought to be most concerned about is a thorough investigation and an honest prosecution."

On the House investigation into President Biden:

"No, I think there have been a lot more details coming out. I've always felt that Joe Biden was unfit for office. Certainly, Senator Grassley and I, in our report, we showed all the vast web of foreign financial entanglements. He never should have been elected. He wouldn't have been if the press would have been honest. But at this point, the House now is just adding to the record we developed. More details, more things that tie President Biden to Hunter Biden's corrupt gifts, and it's just sick to listen to the mainstream media say, 'oh, there is no evidence,' there is a ton of evidence, and it's mounting each and every day. So I hope the House does proceed with an investigative inquiry. I think it'll open up more evidence to them and give them greater power to do the type of investigation that really needs to be done here, because the FBI and the Department of Justice obviously are not doing that thorough investigation."
