Manitowoc, WIS, (March 2026) – A.C.E. Building Service, a Northeast Wisconsin-based provider of commercial and industrial construction services, announced it has received the Safety Award of Honor from the Associated Builders and Contractors of Wisconsin (ABC of Wisconsin). The award was presented during the organization's 2026 SuperCon conference, held February 25–27 in Wisconsin Dells.

The ABC of Wisconsin Chapter Safety Awards Program recognizes member companies that demonstrate a strong commitment to jobsite safety and maintaining safe working environments for employees. The program honors contractors that prioritize safety through proactive training, comprehensive safety programs, and consistently strong safety performance.

“Receiving the Safety Award of Honor from ABC of Wisconsin is a meaningful recognition for our entire team,” said Ted Sommer, Safety and Continuous Improvement Director of A.C.E. Building Service. “Safety is foundational to how we operate every day. This award reflects the dedication of our employees who work hard to ensure that every jobsite remains safe for our team members, partners, and clients.”

The award was presented during a special recognition luncheon at SuperCon, ABC of Wisconsin's annual conference that brings together construction professionals from across the state for safety and management education, industry networking, and recognition of outstanding achievements.

A.C.E. Building Service continues to emphasize safety as a core component of its operations, implementing programs and practices that support safe working conditions across all projects and reinforcing a culture where safety remains a shared responsibility across the organization.
