Cutting taxes for the middle class doesn't have to be a zero-sum game.

MADISON, Wis. - Assembly Republicans today announced plans to use a portion of the state's budget surplus to offer a substantial income tax cut for Wisconsin's hardworking middle class families.

"The plan we introduced today satisfies all of the promises made by Governor Evers while on the campaign trail. However, I am happy to say that, unlike the Governor, we found a way to cut taxes without punishing farmers and small businesses," said Rep. Sanfelippo.

The Assembly Republican plan leaves the Manufacturing and Agriculture Tax Credit in place, which, according to a UW report, has contributed to the creation of 42,000 jobs in Wisconsin over a three-year period (2013-2016).
