Karl Rove – “The Pax Americana Institute will provide our Conservative movement a valuable assistance in discussing defense and foreign policy issues.”

Newt Gingrich – “It is long past overdue that there is finally a conservative think-tank that focuses on foreign policy from a Midwest perspective. While typically known as flyover country, Wisconsin and the Midwest has produced foreign policy giants that continue to have a major impact in Washington DC and beyond.”

Please Join PAI Board Members & Justice-Elect Brian Hagedorn for an informative luncheon on July 9

Established in 2005, the Pax Americana Institute (PAI) is the Midwest’s only comprehensive conservative think tank that is focused on national and homeland security, foreign affairs, international relations, trade, the future of space, and conservative thought. Based in Wisconsin, its purpose is to connect the Midwest to the rest of the world and the world to the Midwest. We accomplish this mission by hosting events such as the one we are currently inviting you to. Please visit our website (www.paxamericana.org) to learn more about the Institute.

Law and Society are major parts of our political system. Check and balances, created to ensure that no single branch of government becomes more powerful than another, are the cornerstone of the Republic. Wisconsin Supreme Court Justice-Elect Brian Hagedorn will present on the subject of law and how it affects our day to day lives at a premier luncheon held by the Pax Americana Institute. The details for this event can be found below; we hope to see you there!
