BRAD PFAFF WITH 20+ POINT LEAD IN CONGRESSIONAL PRIMARY RACE WITH LESS THAN 80 DAYS UNTIL ELECTION DAY

LA CROSSE, WI – A poll of 400 likely Democratic primary voters shows Senator Brad Pfaff with a commanding 20 point lead in his race for Congress, less than 80 days until Election Day with the lead swelling to 24 points after informing voters of the candidates in the race.

“It’s clear voters in western Wisconsin are ready to send Brad to Washington,” said Pfaff Campaign Manager Andrew Whitley. “They want a candidate grounded in the 3rd Congressional District, with the experience of getting things done for rural Wisconsin, and somebody who will beat insurrectionist Derrick Van Orden. There’s no question that Brad is that candidate and this data confirms it.”

The poll also shows Congressman Ron Kind, who has endorsed Pfaff, with a 75% approval rating among likely Democratic primary voters. You can see more data in the attached polling memo.
