

Travis Nez

Secretary of the Republican Party of the 7th Congressional District

It's Time for a Course Correction

As many of you know I have supported someone we all know. But that's not enough anymore. Almost, ten years ago, I was elected as the youngest county board supervisor in Wisconsin.

Defeating the former President of MTV and Dish Network. I won because I was an outsider with new ideas. That concept was refreshing then and it's refreshing now.

I respect Tim Michels, who built an amazing business – Wisconsin's largest construction company! He's not beholden to special interests or Political Committees. Most politicians like to spend everyone else's money rather than their own. But Tim's not beholden to anyone. That independence will attract new voters. And it's imperative we do that.

Unfortunately Scott Walker and his team lost four years ago. This time around, Tony Evers has even more money and the national democrats just said they are going to spend $21 million to prop him up. We have to do better.

Tim is not a talker. He's a doer. He's a builder. And he's building an organization that will not just fight, but will win.

I was one of two elected officials that endorsed Donald Trump in the primary, I was lambasted by the base but I didn't care. I trusted my gut then. And I'm trusting it now. Tim Michels, is the outsider with real world experience, the right agenda, the resources and the backbone to beat Tony Evers.

I am going to support Michels and work hard to make sure he's our next Governor.