

DC Update: How the Trump Administration's Actions Will Reshape Higher Education

9 am, Thursday, April 24

Symphony Room, Gordon Dining & Event Center (Room 241A, 770 W. Dayton Street)

The higher education community has been reeling since Donald Trump was inaugurated in January. Wide-ranging executive orders – relating to federal funding of research, DEI programs and policies, and immigration – to name just a few, have impacted UW-Madison and colleges and universities throughout the United States.

Our panel will discuss federal actions to-date and share their thoughts on how these actions may impact UW-Madison and higher education nationally.

PROFS President Michael Bernard-Donals will moderate:

- Mark Copelovitch, UW-Madison Political Science and Public Affairs Professor
- Jenny Dahlberg, UW-Madison Veterinary Medicine Research Administration Director
- Don Moynihan, University of Michigan Public Policy Professor

This event is free and open to the public. Pastries and coffee will be served at 8:30 am.

 PROFSUWMadison •  profsuwmadison.bsky.social •  @profsuwmadison •  ASPROUW

PROFS
*Representing UW-Madison Faculty.
Strengthening Wisconsin.*

ACADEMIC STAFF PROFESSIONALS
REPRESENTATION ORGANIZATION