Bryson Reyes Announces Candidacy for Wisconsin's 82nd Assembly District

Waukesha, WI (April 14, 2026) – Bryson Reyes, Army veteran and manufacturing professional, announced his candidacy to the State Assembly to succeed Representative Scott Allen, who announced he would not seek reelection.

“I am running for State Assembly because I want to fight for the American dreams of my family and my neighbors. I see lack of economic opportunity for the people who call this place home. Overregulation and lack of support from Madison for our small businesses inhibit growth and do not provide long-term stability for working families.” He added “Wisconsin ranks number one in the country for manufacturing jobs per capita, but we need to do more to enable them to grow jobs, so Wisconsinites have a shot at getting ahead.”

Reyes' campaign will focus on three areas: strengthening the state's economy to support small businesses and working families, fighting to lower utility bills and investing in clean nuclear energy, and fixing the failing education system across the state to better prepare the future generations for their careers.

“I want to thank Representative Scott Allen for his steadfast leadership in Madison over the last 12 years.” Reyes said. “I am looking forward to continuing the fight.”
